Dear Friends and Family,

Broken. That is our desire. That God would break our hearts over our own sin and renew our passion to take His Word to a lost and dying world. God has burdened our hearts over and over for the people of Peru as well, and we seek your prayers in this New Year that God would move in the hearts of His people. That He would move us to humble ourselves, turn from our wicked ways, and seek His face for the healing of our land. That we would believe His Word and allow it to penetrate our innermost being so that the change can begin in us. That we would experience personal revival. That we would be broken.

What better way to start the New Year than praising God for goodness? As 2010 came to a close at least five different people asked to join our support team. Pray that God would burden more hearts to give. Adding these new supporters would bring us up to 20% and we are asking God to provide the rest by the end of this year so that we may return to the field in early 2012.

In early December we escaped the cold frostiness of New Jersey and headed down to visit with Casandra's family in Florida. Within a three week span we celebrated Christmas, Joshua's birthday, New Year's, our 3rd Anniversary, and Casandra's father's birthday! After all the celebrating it is definitely time for some serious physical exercise!

This month, however, the main focus has been on the spiritual exercise of prayer. In both the Men's Conference that Eric attended and the Family Conference at Calvary Baptist here in Fort Walton Beach we have been challenged to have a deeper, more intimate relationship with God. Our time with Him has become sweeter because our desires have become more like His.

"Prayer can do anything God can do, and God can do anything!" So please join us in prayer that the God of the impossible will make all things possible in His time.

Requests:

- A consistent prayer life and walk with God.
- Eric's online seminary class on Ephesians starting this month.
- Wisdom in raising our boys
- Opportunities to be active witnesses for Christ.
- More church meetings for 2011
- New supporters to bring us up to 100% by 2012
